ALL CHARGES ARE DENIED BY SULZER

Decision Regarding Legality Put Off.

HEAR EVIDENCE FIRST

Then Determine If He May Be Held Accountable.

DECISION CAUSED SURPRISE

Following Vote, Which Was 47 to 7, Attorneys For Defense Filed Formal Answer to Eight Articles of Impeachment — Fox Completed Argument, Urging Elimination of Three Most Serious Charges.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 25.—The question as to whether or not Governor Sulzer will be held accountable for acts committed before he took office will not be decided until the final disposition of the case. In the meantime evidence will be heard on the charges regarding these acts.

This was the decision reached by the court of impeachment after the arguments had been heard. Presiding Judge Cullen created a big surprise in the courtroom when he suggested the procedure. The court voted on the question, and the result was in favor of Judge Cullen's suggestion—47 to 7.

Those who voted against the motion were Senators Duhamel, Herrick, McKnight, O'Keefe, Peckham and Wheeler.

Counsel for Sulzer then presented the governor's answer. It was a general denial. He admitted that he had made the statement as to campaign contributions and said that he made it in good faith. After this Eugene Lamb Richards of counsel for the assembly managers presented the case against Governor Sulzer.

The action of the court of impeachment in delaying a vote on the legality of the defense's objection to three articles in the impeachment is regarded here as a staggering blow to Governor Sulzer. Despite the fact that it was asserted in court that no bias was being shown, it was undeniable that the action was a direct demand on the governor to answer all the charges. The general belief is that the vote taken was an indication of what Governor Sulzer's strength will be when the case comes up for a final verdict. The vote indicates that Governor Sulzer at present lacks fourteen votes to prevent his conviction.

The taking of testimony began. Secretary of State Mitchell May was called and testified about receiving documents to show that William Sulzer had been recommended for governor and elected. He also gave evidence as to the receipt of Governor Sulzer's statement regarding his campaign expenses.

Telegrams Demanded.

Every line of the telegraphic correspondence of both William Sulzer and Mrs. Sulzer sent during the months of June, July, August and September up to this date was demanded of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies by the formal process of the court of impeachment. Managers of both the companies were served with subpoenas duces tecum commanding them to appear with the thousands of messages that have left the executive mansion and which are expected to develop sensational testimony.

The telegraph companies were also required to bring along the messages to and from Secretary Chester C. Platt, John A. Hennessy and Louis A. Sarecky, who were acting confidentially for the governor during the months named.

This order created consternation, because in the months named in the subpoenas there have been sent several thousand messages, many of them to persons whose names have not heretofore figured in the impeachment scandal.

Argument by Fox.

Several members of the high court of impeachment were absent when Austen G. Fox resumed his argument at the opening of the session. The attorney opened by attacking the statement of Alton B. Parker that the constitution permitted the assembly to impeach at any time for any cause. He conceded that there was a "broad power of removal," but held that, in regard to impeachment, the assembly had no power to accuse an official for acts committed before having taken office.

"This attempt on the part of the managers to remove William Sulzer for acts performed while he was a private citizen," Mr. Fox continued, "is a novel doctrine never heard before in any court of justice in this state, never breached in any constitutional convention, never submitted to any English speaking people."

Mr. Fox declared he would make "not a threat, for that would be as idle as it would be unbecoming, but an appeal to some of the members of this court whose right to sit is unchallenged, but whose attitude, as I conceive it, is not proper.

The Impatience of Majorities.

"We cannot shut our eyes to the fact that there is today a large number of our fellow citizens led by distinguished and popular leaders whose very political creed embodies an impatience of constitutional restraint and who demand that the final test shall be not a judicial interpretation of the constitution, but the duly ascertained wish of the majority of the moment.

"It may be that the present attempt on the part of the assembly of the state of New York is but an expression, unconscious perhaps on their part, of this so called spirit of the times to brush aside all obstacles, deride all objections based on mere conformity to law and proceed at once to the object which, in the view of the majority, the public welfare may seem to demand.

"If the view of the honorable managers be correct, then, indeed, all questions of constitutional limitation or construction are beside the mark, and this court should proceed to register whatever decree it may be persuaded will best please what it may determine is the present public demand.

"We shall all do well when urged to disregard the principles established by law to recall the words of one of the greatest judges:

"'To press forward to a great principle by breaking through every other great principle that stands in the way of its establishment is as little consonant to private morality as to public justice.'"

MAY TEST NEW LAW

Auditor General Told to Take Mothers' Pension Measure to Court.

In an opinion in answer to a request for an opinion as to whether the mothers' pension law passed by the last legislature is constitutional, Attorney General Bell informs Auditor General Powell that he cannot pass upon the question, which can only be settled by an amicable action in court. Attorney General Bell says he finds some of the language of the act to be ambiguous, and says there may be a doubt as to its constitutionality, but says his department cannot pas upon the question, and recommended a test case in court if the auditor general is not satisfied the act is constitutional.

Auditor General Powell says he will not decide what course he will pursue until an application is received from a county for a portion of the $200,000 appropriated by the state He and State Treasurer Young have made up the allotment of this money to the various counties in proportion to the population.

REPUBLICANS FOR MANY NEW REFORMS

Eliminate Many Southern Delegates at Conventions.

New York, Sept. 25.—The power of William Barnes, Jr., is shaken as the result of the Republican state convention, and the party has gone on record for a new method of choosing national convention delegates.

William E. Werner of Monroe county, associate judge of the court of appeals, was nominated for the chief judgeship of that court to succeed Edgar M. Cullen, whose term ends this year, and Frank H. Hiscock of Syracuse, now sitting by designation in the court of appeals, was nominated for associate judge.

It had been announced that the convention would be unbossed. That was partially true. Mr. Barnes made several concessions because the convention selected Senator Elihu Root as permanent chairman in place of Harold J. Hinman, minority leader in the senate.

A resolution intended to eliminate the power of mercenary colored delegates from the south to national conventions was passed. New York went on record for representation in proportion to the Republican vote cast. The Republicans who jeered Colonel Roosevelt's protest in this matter in Chicago have been converted to his viewpoint.

TWO MURDERED IN FARM WAGON

Man and Boy, Driving Home, Stabbed to Death.

BODIES FOUND IN A GULLY.

Crime Discovered When Team Returns Home Alone — Pockets Rifled, but Police Believe There May Have Been Another Motive Besides Robbery — Bad Blood Between Neighbors.

Matawan, N. J., Sept. 25.—Angelo Cantaloupe, thirty-four years old, and his stepson, Victor Lausursula, fifteen years old, were murdered while driving home in a farm wagon. Then the bodies were thrown into a gully near Freneau, where they were found by searchers.

Cantaloupe lived on a farm three miles from here. He drove with a wagon load of produce destined for New York and shipped it to the city on the boat leaving Keyport. He was about two-thirds of the way home when he and his stepson were murdered.

Angelo Vanasta was in the farm house when he heard the horses and wagon enter the yard. He remarked to others of the family that they were late returning. A little later he heard the horses out by the barn, and, knowing there had been time for them to be stabled, he went out to investigate. He found the horses had not been attended to and by the light of a lantern found that the flank of one of the animals and the wagon were stained with blood.

Vanasta aroused Thomas Kelly, who has a farm near by. Kelly on hearing Vanasta's story telephoned to Matawan, and Constables Hagan and Lamberteen, with Justice of the Peace Fardon, went to the farm.

Bodies Found.

Starting from the barn, they went back over the route which the wagon should have taken. At a point near the Freehold railroad bridge they found the two bodies. The man had a deep knife wound in the neck, and there were wounds about the body. There was a long wound on the back of the boy's head, and a knife had been driven into his back.

Members of the family say that the boy had some money, and Cantaloupe should have had considerable, but when the bodies were found the pockets were empty.

The authorities believe the man and boy were attacked by men who came upon them from under the shadow of the railroad bridge.

While the absence of money on the bodies indicates robbery, the authorities are following another line. Cantaloupe did not get along well with some of the other farmers, many of whom are foreigners in this section.

GAYNOR FAMILY HEAR WILL READ

Document Contains Surprises In Dividing Estate.

TOTAL VALUE IS $2,000,000

Two Sons Get Two-sevenths Each and Three Unmarried Daughters One-seventh Each—Brooklyn Home His Bequest to Widow—Married Daughters Get $1,000 Each.

New York Sept. 25.—Mayor Gaynor's will was read for the first time to members of his family by Attorney Michael Furst, the lawyer by whom it was drawn. The reading took place in the office of Surrogate Ketcham of Kings county, in Brooklyn. Mrs. Gaynor, the two sons, Rufus and Norman, and Mrs. William Seward Webb, formerly Gertrude Gaynor, were present.

It was expected that Attorney Furst will submit a petition for probate to Surrogate Ketcham and that the will then will be filed and made public. It was rumored that the executors will be Mr. Furst, R. A. C. Smith and Charles H. Hyde.

After the death of Mr. Gaynor Mr. Furst, to whom the will had been intrusted by the late mayor before his proposed trip abroad, opened the document to ascertain whether it contained any provisions concerning the funeral. He did not acquaint the family with its contents, as was reported. Because of the public position of the testator he placed it in the custody of the surrogate.

It was said that the publication of the provisions of the will would cause many surprises to the late mayor's friends. While neither Mr. Furst nor the surrogate would give out any information concerning the provisions, it was reported that the estate, valued at nearly $2,000,000, was divided into seven parts, of which the two sons, Rufus and Norman Gaynor, would each receive two-sevenths and the Misses Ruth, Marion and Helen Gaynor, the younger daughters of the mayor, one-seventh each.

No bequests were made, it is said, to the two remaining daughters, Mrs. Harry Vingut and Mrs. William Seward Webb. Each, however, is to receive $1,000 as a remembrance.

The biggest surprise in the will, however, it is said, concerns Mrs. Gaynor, the mayor's widow. The only provision made in the will for Mrs. Gaynor, according to one report, is the gift of the town house of the mayor at 20 Eighth avenue, Brooklyn, and some stocks.

REGULARS AND MOOSERS

Will Hold State Meeting on the Same Day.

Harrisburg, Sept. 25 — Republican and Washington party state committees are evidently to meet in Harrisburg on the same day, at the same place and at almost the same hour next week.

This developed when A. Nevin Detrich, secretary of the Washington State Committee, engaged the small hall of the board of trade for his committee meeting next Tuesday at 2 o'clock. The large hall of the building has been engaged by Henry G. Wasson, the Republican state chairman, for a meeting of the state committee at 2.30 on the same day.

The coincidence created much talk here, but no one seemed to know anything about it. The membership of the two committees is now determined by the direct primary election. It is doubtful, however, if enough official returns will be ready to enble the secretary of the commonwealth to certify the names of men elected by next Tuesday.

The Republican regulars will control the new state committee and likely elect Senator William E. Crow as chairman.

ELK DO DAMAGE

State Will Reimburse Those Whose Crops Have Been Injured.

State game commission authorities today declared that they would pay reasonable charges for damages done to truck patches and fields of farmers by the state's herd of elk which have been turned loose to propagate, but they did not propose to be mulcted and that farmers making claims will have to show that damage has been done and accept market prices.

The state turned about seventy elk loose this year, the herds having been bought in the western states and a closed season made on them until 1921. In the last week or so complaints have been received from farmers in Clearfield, Centre, Clinton and other central counties that elk have been tearing up fields in much the same manner as deer have done.

TARIFF CONFEREES NEAR END OF TASK

Disputed Issues Rapidly Being Cleared Away.

Washington, Sept. 25.—Twenty sharply contested issues in the tariff bill remained to be settled when the house and senate conferees reassembled for what many believed would be the concluding day of their work. The policy of the administration toward foreign countries, involving the proposed retaliatory provisions of the tariff, the 5 per cent discount on goods brought in American ships and the prohibition against goods made by child labor were among the features still to be settled.

The conferees were also prepared for a final decision of the perplexing cotton futures tax question, involving the Clarke amendment proposing a tax of 50 cents per bale on all trades in cotton futures where actual delivery is not made. As a compromise southern senators and representatives, supported by the department of agriculture and Postmaster General Burleson, have proposed a compromise, reducing the tax to 5 cents per bale when the contracts specified government cotton grades and those grades were delivered or the difference in value paid in cash.

Good evening! Aren't you glad the office bee never got into your bonnet?

MOTHERS PENSIONS.

Clearfield county's commissioners have been waiting for a court decision as to the constitutionality of the mothers' pension act of the recent legislation. The commissioners say that as the operation of this act would require the expenditure of at east two thousand dollars a year it behooves them to pursue a cautious course. The state legislature appropriated two hundred thousand dollars, the state's share of the pension, the money to be apportioned among the various counties.

Auditor General Powell has been directed to take the pension act into court on the question of its constitutionality, and the auditor general will do this when the first application for aid under the act is presented to his office. An amicable action would serve as a test of the law, and if the court sustains the act then the counties could proceed to receive applications from such mothers as may wish to be benefited by the act.

The benefits of the mothers' pension law are summed up by a lawyer in the following terse sentences:

"1. The children are not pauperized They gain an independent hom in place of one which is dependent on alms.

"2. The mother gains in self respect.

"3 The citizens gain in social recognition of the mother's service and the children's need. The mother works for them,and they repay her

"4. The state gains in economy and wise investments by preventing waywardness, delinquency and crime.

"The gain is to the child, the mother, the citizen and the state. The loss seemes to be to charity agents alone.

In Clearfield county there are a number of mothers who have a most difficult task before them to maintain themselves and their children an to such mothers the operation of the pension law would be a great boon. The provisions of the act are such that it would be impossible for the unworthy to reap any benefit from it for any length of time. The deserving mother would receive financial aid and be enabled to live in greater comfort than is possible at present, and there is little fear that the pension money would go to the wrong persons.

MURDERED AMERICANS

It is stated that more than one hundred Americans have been murdered in Mexico this year. If this be true, then the American government has been derelict in its duty, that of affording every protection possible to United States citizens, no matter where they may be. Talk of bringing those responsible for the murder of Americans in Mexico to 'a definite reckoning," as announced by President Wilson, is silly twaddle. The persons responsible for the assassination and robbig of Americans in that troubled republic will never be brought to punishment.

President Huerta is, of course, primarily responsible for murders, but Hureta is unable if willing to bring criminals to justice. It is as much as Hureta's own head is worth that he is able to keep away from rebels, and his own record of crimes is sufficiently black to show that he would have no hand in punishing those who have committed the murders among the American residents of Mexico. President Wilson must know that the Mexicans, both rebels and loyalists, cannot be brought to book for crimes they have committed under the guise of war.

WINNING FRIENDS.

As the days pass the popularity of the Washington candidates for county office grows. It is coming to be realized by the voters of all political parties that the Washington candidates were nominated because of fitness for the office they seek to fill and not at the dictation of any one man or set of men, and this fact increases the chances of the election of these candidates.

Charles W. Frey, Washington candidate for sheriff, comes before the voters with a clean record. He is a man who possesses the respect of all who know him and if elected he will prove himself a most efficient official. Those who wish to see the affairs of the office of sheriff administered in an able and satisfactory manner should vote for Mr. Frey.

Earle G. Boose, who was named for district attorney by Washington voters, is well equipped to discharge the duties of that office with fidelity. Mr. Boose would not regard the salary attached to the office of district attorney as a matter of greater moment than would be his duty to the taxpayers.

There is more importance attached the office of jury commissioner than many people imagine, and it is absolutely necessary to have in that office a man who is well acquainted in the county, who would be a fit person to have in the jury box and who would prevent the placing of the names of undesirable person in the ujry wheel Such a man is Leo C. Syphert, Washington candidate for jury commissioner.

There are those who say that if there is a ring in the court house it has been squared.

If you are a constant reader of the Progress you know that it is a real newspaper.

Don't swear; it's vulgar,besides some person will hale you before a justice and you will have to pay sixty-two cents for each oath used.

In the meantime, is the health officer making an inspection of the rear lots of residences in this town.?

The beef packers say that if Uncle Sam were to induce farmers to raise more cattle the hight cost of meats would fall. But if the packers were not to be so greedy the price of meat would not now be beyond the possibilities of the average family.

TELEGRAPHIC TICKS.

The skeleton of an Indian believed to be 200 years old was unearthed by workmen at College Point, N. Y.

Uncle Joe Cannon, former speaker of the house of representatives, has started the ball rolling for the 1914 campaign.

Edward B. Pryor of St. Louis, receiver for the Wabash railroad, must sign his name in full 14,000 times to receivers' certificates.

A naval court was ordered convened to try D. M. Hauser, assistant paymaster of the cruiser Buffalo, on a charge of being $1,300 short.

Scores made by the battleships and destroyers of the Atlantic fleet in the elementary target practice just completed were much higher than last year's in spite of more rigid rules.

Light of the Fireflies.

It has been proved by experiments conducted by M. Ives, a chemist, that the light emitted by fireflies, glowworms and other insects is purely chemical and not in any way biological. M. Ives finds that this light is not extinguished by death. Of course after death some stimulus is necessary to excite it, but it can be produced in their tissues two years after death, which makes certain that it is chemical in origin.—New York World.

Impeachment Managers Planned to Call Him to Tell of His Contributions.

After all legal technicalities had been cleared up the real beginning of the Sulzer impeachment trial was anticipated with great interest. It was planned to call as the first witness Jacob H. Mr. Schiff will probably be followed by Henry Morgenthau and Abram I. Elkus.

BOMB IMPERILS MANY.

Lives of Twenty-one Families Endangered by Explosion.

New York, Sept. 25.—Twenty-one families in the five story house at 677 Lenox avenue were driven in terror to the street when a bomb exploded in the vestibule. The hallway was wrecked, and the lives of many persons were endangered.

Joseph Davis and Herman Ritter, returning to the house, saw a sputtering light in the vestibule near the inner doors. They made out a large cigar box, wound with twine, with a lighted fuse projecting from each end. The men had reached the steps leading to the sidewalk when the machine exploded.

Davis and Ritter were thrown down. Glass from the broken vestibule doors and marble from the sides of the place showered about them. All the families in the house were shaken by the concussion.

MRS. JOSEPH A. BLAKE SUES.

Report That She Has Started Action Against Mrs. Mackay.

New York, Sept. 25.—It became known that Mrs. Joseph A. Blake, wife of the eminent surgeon, had instructed her lawyers to bring a suit against Mrs Clarence H. Mackay, asking $1,000,000 as damages and alleging the alienation of the affections of her husband.

No papers in the suit have been filed It is stated, however, that notice of the action has been served upon Mrs Mackay, who is now in Portland, Me. None of the lawyers would discuss the matter.

An aviator has crossed the Mediterranean. Roland G. Garros, a Frenchman, flew from Frejus, near Cannes, to Bizerta, near Tunis, a distance of 558 miles, in 7 hours 45 minutes. This distance is about one-third as far as from the coast of Ireland to the coast of Newfoundland. He has brought the possibility of flying across the Atlantic to a probability.

NEARING 1000 MARK

Another Woman Takes Out a License to Hunt Game.

Three is on record in the county treasurer's office 990 names of persons who have been granted licenses to hunt game in Clearfield county.

The third woman to take out a license is Mrs. Ella Smeal, of Cooper township, whose license number is 2084.

From the weekly statement of Alex Wallace, there are now 385 more licenses issued than there are deer in this and the adjoining four counties.

Passing Pennies.

Here's a jolly game for summer evenings. Place five chairs in a row and five chairs opposite them, with a small table at each end. Ask ten children to take the seats, with a captain at each head of the line. Then the captain takes five pennies that are given him and lays them on the head table. Every other child must hold out its hands for the penny to be dropped into them, the palms flat and close together. Now the captains sitting beside the head table start sending the pennies to the other end. They pick one cent off the table, drop it in the next child's hand, then the third person picks it out and drops it in the next hand, and so on until the last player is reached and the coin is laid on the foot table. As soon as the fifth cent reaches the foot table it is sent back by the same process. The side getting the five coins "home" first wins. The faster this game is played the more exciting it is.

BOBBY'S BALL.

Lit-tle Bob-by was in the gar-den a-lone.

He felt ver-y lone-ly. He had played with all his toys till he was tired of them. Now he did not know what to do with himself.

"I wish I had a ball," he said, "a ball that I could throw up in the air and bounce on the ground."

And then a voice be-hind him said:

"Catch!"

And a ball came flying through the air to-ward him. Bob-by held out his hands and just caught it. It was a love-ly big, bounc-ing, red and green ball.

There be-hind him stood dad-dy.

"I thought you might like a ball, Bob-by boy," said dad-dy, "so I brought you one home."

THREE WORDS

Lawyer Received $10,000 For "Stop! Look! Listen!"

By HOLLAND.

WORDS are wonderful things. A Chicago publisher displays in his windows the legend, "Words are the only things that live forever."

A lawyer was once asked by the president of a railroad to suggest a sign that could be posted at railroad crossings—something that would prevent accidents and would also be effective in defending damage suits when accidents occurred.

He suggested the three words, "Stop! Look! Listen!" He received a fee of $10,000, and his suggestion was worth it because those words, posted at grade crossings, prevented many accidents.

Do you believe in signs? And do you obey them when you see them? Do you stop, look and listen? You ought to, because by watching these warnings as they appear in our advertising columns you can

AVOID BEING
SWINDLED BY SUBSTITUTES

Every advertisement is a warning sign. It suggests that you stop, look and listen before proceeding. In other words, investigate and thereby avoid the shoddy, the impure, the worthless.

The increasing popularity of dog meat as a table delicacy among the poor of Berlin is no better shown than by the recent decision to erect an abattoir for dogs. The harbor of Reykjavik, in Iceland, is to have a railway built about it so as to facilitate the transport of freight and ease the congestion due to old fashioned methods. The enterprise is small to begin with, but it is thought that once an opening is made on the island a railway running across to Thingvalla will be built.

Japan has finally decided, after experiments extending over some years, to put beef on the daily diet of her navy. The reason is that the men in those ships where beef has been given daily have an advantage in height of nearly three-quarters of an inch over the average Japanese peasant, to whom meat is an unknown food.

PROSPERITY

Advertisements Are the Guideposts Showing Way

By HOLLAND.

WOULD you travel the road that leads to Prosperity? Then read the advertisements. They are the guideposts pointing the way. Disregard the advertisements and you are likely to go wrong, and even if you finally reach your destination you do so only after needless delays and unnecessary traveling.

The traveler who would disregard guideposts, who would not examine them at every opportunity, would be called foolish. He would get little sympathy when he complained of time lost going the wrong direction.

The man who neglects to read the advertisements is disregarding guideposts and is taking unnecessary chances and is delaying his own progress.

"Fine Feathers"

In "Fine Feathers", the greatest drama of the day that has ever been written, and which will be presented at the New Opera house next Tuesday night. H. H. Frazee, the owner, and Eugene Walters, the author, have given the public a play that will live for years. A young chemist on a salary of $25.00 a week is trying to support an extravigant wife who craves for the fineries that her husband can not give. How the wife ruins her husband through working on his love for her makes this play one that grips the audience from start to finish.

'Uncle Tom's Cabin" was given to a record-breaking audience at the New Opera house last night, and the performance pleased those who witnessed it. The company carries a large amount of paraphernalia, including bloodhounds, ponies and the like, and the street parade, headed by two bands, was the delight of man youngsters.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Pressure at Opening Caused Decline in Industrials.

New York, Sept 24.

The reports about lessened production by the United States steel plants at Pittsburgh were effective in causing increased pressure on that stock in the early trading and had a disturbing influence on trading through the list. Steel sustained a further loss of one-half point, selling at 63½ at the opening, and the lack of support around previously prevailing prices in the leading industrials caused liberal selling of other issues Union Pacific appeared heavy, declining seven-eighths point to 159⅝, and fractional losses were sustained in Reading New York Central and the copper stocks were also established at a lower range

The tone in the early trading was determined to a great extent by early price movements in London, and during the first hour arbitrage brokers sold stocks here at a fairly large scale for London account, the supply from that source amounting to about 20,000 shares chiefly Union Pacific, Steel common and Amalgamated The room traders bought at first, but outside speculative interests were aggressive sellers Steel common yielded ⅞ to 63¾ on reports from Pittsburgh indicating substantial trade recession The Copper shares were freely supplied Government bonds were unchanged and other bonds irregular There was no change in speculative conditions in the late forenoon, pressure continuing to be exerted against many of the leading issues, and some further declines were sustained in Reading, Union Pacific and Steel The feature of the trading in Reading was the sale of 2,000 shares for London account, closing out the stock bought on the other side a week ago The manner in which Reading acted however, was regarded as satisfactory by those committed to the bull side. The continued accumulation on the recessions was taken to indicate that some basis existed for current reports that the management had under consideration an arrangement to amicably adjust its relations with the government Union Pacific was supplied in fairly large volume, mostly by houses with foreign connections

Decision Regarding Legality Put Off.

HEAR EVIDENCE FIRST

Then Determine If He May Be Held Accountable.

DECISION CAUSED SURPRISE

Following Vote, Which Was 47 to 7, Attorneys For Defense Filed Formal Answer to Eight Articles of Impeachment — Fox Completed Argument, Urging Elimination of Three Most Serious Charges.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 25.—The question as to whether or not Governor Sulzer will be held accountable for acts committed before he took office will not be decided until the final disposition of the case. In the meantime evidence will be heard on the charges regarding these acts.

This was the decision reached by the court of impeachment after the arguments had been heard. Presiding Judge Cullen created a big surprise in the courtroom when he suggested the procedure. The court voted on the question, and the result was in favor of Judge Cullen's suggestion—47 to 7.

Those who voted against the motion were Senators Duhamel, Herrick, McKnight, O'Keefe, Peckham and Wheeler.

Counsel for Sulzer then presented the governor's answer. It was a general denial. He admitted that he had made the statement as to campaign contributions and said that he made it in good faith. After this Eugene Lamb Richards of counsel for the assembly managers presented the case against Governor Sulzer.

The action of the court of impeachment in delaying a vote on the legality of the defense's objection to three articles in the impeachment is regarded here as a staggering blow to Governor Sulzer. Despite the fact that it was asserted in court that no bias was being shown, it was undeniable that the action was a direct demand on the governor to answer all the charges. The general belief is that the vote taken was an indication of what Governor Sulzer's strength will be when the case comes up for a final verdict. The vote indicates that Governor Sulzer at present lacks fourteen votes to prevent his conviction.

The taking of testimony began. Secretary of State Mitchell May was called and testified about receiving documents to show that William Sulzer had been recommended for governor and elected. He also gave evidence as to the receipt of Governor Sulzer's statement regarding his campaign expenses.

Telegrams Demanded.

Every line of the telegraphic correspondence of both William Sulzer and Mrs. Sulzer sent during the months of June, July, August and September up to this date was demanded of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies by the formal process of the court of impeachment. Managers of both the companies were served with subpoenas duces tecum commanding them to appear with the thousands of messages that have left the executive mansion and which are expected to develop sensational testimony.

The telegraph companies were also required to bring along the messages to and from Secretary Chester C. Platt, John A. Hennessy and Louis A. Sarecky, who were acting confidentially for the governor during the months named.

This order created consternation, because in the months named in the subpoenas there have been sent several thousand messages, many of them to persons whose names have not heretofore figured in the impeachment scandal.

Argument by Fox.

Several members of the high court of impeachment were absent when Austen G. Fox resumed his argument at the opening of the session. The attorney opened by attacking the statement of Alton B. Parker that the constitution permitted the assembly to impeach at any time for any cause. He conceded that there was a "broad power of removal," but held that, in regard to impeachment, the assembly had no power to accuse an official for acts committed before having taken office.

"This attempt on the part of the managers to remove William Sulzer for acts performed while he was a private citizen," Mr. Fox continued, "is a novel doctrine never heard before in any court of justice in this state, never breached in any constitutional convention, never submitted to any English speaking people."

Mr. Fox declared he would make "not a threat, for that would be as idle as it would be unbecoming, but an appeal to some of the members of this court whose right to sit is unchallenged, but whose attitude, as I conceive it, is not proper.

The Impatience of Majorities.

"We cannot shut our eyes to the fact that there is today a large number of our fellow citizens led by distinguished and popular leaders whose very political creed embodies an impatience of constitutional restraint and who demand that the final test shall be not a judicial interpretation of the constitution, but the duly ascertained wish of the majority of the moment.

"It may be that the present attempt on the part of the assembly of the state of New York is but an expression, unconscious perhaps on their part, of this so called spirit of the times to brush aside all obstacles, deride all objections based on mere conformity to law and proceed at once to the object which, in the view of the majority, the public welfare may seem to demand.

"If the view of the honorable managers be correct, then, indeed, all questions of constitutional limitation or construction are beside the mark, and this court should proceed to register whatever decree it may be persuaded will best please what it may determine is the present public demand.

"We shall all do well when urged to disregard the principles established by law to recall the words of one of the greatest judges:

"'To press forward to a great principle by breaking through every other great principle that stands in the way of its establishment is as little consonant to private morality as to public justice.'"

MAY TEST NEW LAW

Auditor General Told to Take Mothers' Pension Measure to Court.

In an opinion in answer to a request for an opinion as to whether the mothers' pension law passed by the last legislature is constitutional, Attorney General Bell informs Auditor General Powell that he cannot pass upon the question, which can only be settled by an amicable action in court. Attorney General Bell says he finds some of the language of the act to be ambiguous, and says there may be a doubt as to its constitutionality, but says his department cannot pas upon the question, and recommended a test case in court if the auditor general is not satisfied the act is constitutional.

Auditor General Powell says he will not decide what course he will pursue until an application is received from a county for a portion of the $200,000 appropriated by the state He and State Treasurer Young have made up the allotment of this money to the various counties in proportion to the population.

REPUBLICANS FOR MANY NEW REFORMS

Eliminate Many Southern Delegates at Conventions.

New York, Sept. 25.—The power of William Barnes, Jr., is shaken as the result of the Republican state convention, and the party has gone on record for a new method of choosing national convention delegates.

William E. Werner of Monroe county, associate judge of the court of appeals, was nominated for the chief judgeship of that court to succeed Edgar M. Cullen, whose term ends this year, and Frank H. Hiscock of Syracuse, now sitting by designation in the court of appeals, was nominated for associate judge.

It had been announced that the convention would be unbossed. That was partially true. Mr. Barnes made several concessions because the convention selected Senator Elihu Root as permanent chairman in place of Harold J. Hinman, minority leader in the senate.

A resolution intended to eliminate the power of mercenary colored delegates from the south to national conventions was passed. New York went on record for representation in proportion to the Republican vote cast. The Republicans who jeered Colonel Roosevelt's protest in this matter in Chicago have been converted to his viewpoint.

TWO MURDERED IN FARM WAGON

Man and Boy, Driving Home, Stabbed to Death.

BODIES FOUND IN A GULLY.

Crime Discovered When Team Returns Home Alone — Pockets Rifled, but Police Believe There May Have Been Another Motive Besides Robbery Bad Blood Between Neighbors.

Matawan, N. J., Sept. 25.—Angelo Cantaloupe, thirty-four years old, and his stepson, Victor Lausursula, fifteen years old, were murdered while driving home in a farm wagon. Then the bodies were thrown into a gully near Freneau, where they were found by searchers.

Cantaloupe lived on a farm three miles from here. He drove with a wagon load of produce destined for New York and shipped it to the city on the boat leaving Keyport. He was about two-thirds of the way home when he and his stepson were murdered.

Angelo Vanasta was in the farm house when he heard the horses and wagon enter the yard. He remarked to others of the family that they were late returning. A little later he heard the horses out by the barn, and, knowing there had been time for them to be stabled, he went out to investigate. He found the horses had not been attended to and by the light of a lantern found that the flank of one of the animals and the wagon were stained with blood.

Vanasta aroused Thomas Kelly, who has a farm near by. Kelly on hearing Vanasta's story telephoned to Matawan, and Constables Hagan and Lamberteen, with Justice of the Peace Fardon, went to the farm.

Bodies Found.

Starting from the barn, they went back over the route which the wagon should have taken. At a point near the Freehold railroad bridge they found the two bodies. The man had a deep knife wound in the neck, and there were wounds about the body. There was a long wound on the back of the boy's head, and a knife had been driven into his back.

Members of the family say that the boy had some money, and Cantaloupe should have had considerable, but when the bodies were found the pockets were empty.

The authorities believe the man and boy were attacked by men who came upon them from under the shadow of the railroad bridge.

While the absence of money on the bodies indicates robbery, the authorities are following another line. Cantaloupe did not get along well with some of the other farmers, many of whom are foreigners in this section.

GAYNOR FAMILY HEAR WILL READ

Document Contains Surprises In Dividing Estate.

TOTAL VALUE IS $2,000,000

Two Sons Get Two-sevenths Each and Three Unmarried Daughters One-seventh Each—Brooklyn Home His Bequest to Widow—Married Daughters Get $1,000 Each.

New York Sept. 25.—Mayor Gaynor's will was read for the first time to members of his family by Attorney Michael Furst, the lawyer by whom it was drawn. The reading took place in the office of Surrogate Ketcham of Kings county, in Brooklyn. Mrs. Gaynor, the two sons, Rufus and Norman, and Mrs. William Seward Webb, formerly Gertrude Gaynor, were present.

It was expected that Attorney Furst will submit a petition for probate to Surrogate Ketcham and that the will then will be filed and made public. It was rumored that the executors will be Mr. Furst, R. A. C. Smith and Charles H. Hyde.

After the death of Mr. Gaynor Mr. Furst, to whom the will had been intrusted by the late mayor before his proposed trip abroad, opened the document to ascertain whether it contained any provisions concerning the funeral. He did not acquaint the family with its contents, as was reported. Because of the public position of the testator he placed it in the custody of the surrogate.

It was said that the publication of the provisions of the will would cause many surprises to the late mayor's friends. While neither Mr. Furst nor the surrogate would give out any information concerning the provisions, it was reported that the estate, valued at nearly $2,000,000, was divided into seven parts, of which the two sons, Rufus and Norman Gaynor, would each receive two-sevenths and the Misses Ruth, Marion and Helen Gaynor, the younger daughters of the mayor, one-seventh each.

No bequests were made, it is said, to the two remaining daughters, Mrs. Harry Vingut and Mrs. William Seward Webb. Each, however, is to receive $1,000 as a remembrance.

The biggest surprise in the will, however, it is said, concerns Mrs. Gaynor, the mayor's widow. The only provision made in the will for Mrs. Gaynor, according to one report, is the gift of the town house of the mayor at 20 Eighth avenue, Brooklyn, and some stocks.

REGULARS AND MOOSERS

Will Hold State Meeting on the Same Day.

Harrisburg, Sept. 25 — Republican and Washington party state committees are evidently to meet in Harrisburg on the same day, at the same place and at almost the same hour next week.

This developed when A. Nevin Detrich, secretary of the Washington State Committee, engaged the small hall of the board of trade for his committee meeting next Tuesday at 2 o'clock. The large hall of the building has been engaged by Henry G. Wasson, the Republican state chairman, for a meeting of the state committee at 2.30 on the same day.

The coincidence created much talk here, but no one seemed to know anything about it. The membership of the two committees is now determined by the direct primary election. It is doubtful, however, if enough official returns will be ready to enble the secretary of the commonwealth to certify the names of men elected by next Tuesday.

The Republican regulars will control the new state committee and likely elect Senator William E. Crow as chairman.

Hurt in Wreck.

P. Frazer, superintendent, and Geo. Benett, trainmaster, of the Pittsburgh division of the B., R. & P., railroad, both of DuBois, were severely hurt in a wreck on that road in Indiana county yesterday.

ELK DO DAMAGE

State Will Reimburse Those Whose Crops Have Been Injured.

State game commission authorities today declared that they would pay reasonable charges for damages done to truck patches and fields of farmers by the state's herd of elk which have been turned loose to propagate, but they did not propose to be mulcted and that farmers making claims will have to show that damage has been done and accept market prices.

The state turned about seventy elk loose this year, the herds having been bought in the western states and a closed season made on them until 1921. In the last week or so complaints have been received from farmers in Clearfield, Centre, Clinton and other central counties the elk have been tearing up fields in much the same manner as deer have done.

Paul Quick, formerly a resident of Morrisdale, died at the Warren hospital Monday, aged 73 years. His wife and three sons and three daughters survive him.

TARIFF CONFEREES NEAR END OF TASK

Disputed Issues Rapidly Being Cleared Away.

Washington, Sept. 25.—Twenty sharply contested issues in the tariff bill remained to be settled when the house and senate conferees reassembled for what many believed would be the concluding day of their work. The policy of the administration toward foreign countries, involving the proposed retaliatory provisions of the tariff, the 5 per cent discount on goods brought in American ships and the prohibition against goods made by child labor were among the features still to be settled.

The conferees were also prepared for a final decision of the perplexing cotton futures tax question, involving the Clarke amendment proposing a tax of 50 cents per bale on all trades in cotton futures where actual delivery is not made. As a compromise southern senators and representatives, supported by the department of agriculture and Postmaster General Burleson, have proposed a compromise, reducing the tax to 5 cents per bale when the contracts specified government cotton grades and those grades were delivered or the difference in value paid in cash.

COMING EVENTS.

Anti-Saloon League convention Clearfield district, Clearfield, Oct. 7.
DuBois fair, Sept. 30, Oct. 1, 2, 3.

Good evening! Aren't you glad the office bee never got into your bonnet?

MOTHERS PENSIONS.

Clearfield county's commissioners have been waiting for a court decision as to the constitutionality of the mothers' pension act of the recent legislation. The commissioners say that as the operation of this act would require the expenditure of at east two thousand dollars a year it behooves them to pursue a cautious course. The state legislature appropriated two hundred thousand dollars, the state's share of the pension, the money to be apportioned among the various counties.

Auditor General Powell has been directed to take the pension act into court on the question of its constitutionality, and the auditor general will do this when the first application for aid under the act is presented to his office. An amicable action would serve as a test of the law, and if the court sustains the act then the counties could proceed to receive applications from such mothers as may wish to be benefited by the act.

The benefits of the mothers' pension law are summed up by a lawyer in the following terse sentences:

"1. The children are not pauperized They gain an independent hom in place of one which is dependent on alms.

"2. The mother gains in self respect.

"3 The citizens gain in social recognition of the mother's service and the children's need. The mother works for them,and they repay her

"4. The state gains in economy and wise investments by preventing waywardness, delinquency and crime.

"The gain is to the child, the mother, the citizen and the state. The loss seemes to be to charity agents alone.

In Clearfield county there are a number of mothers who have a most difficult task before them to maintain themselves and their children an to such mothers the operation of the pension law would be a great boon. The provisions of the act are such that it would be impossible for the unworthy to reap any benefit from it for any length of time. The deserving mother would receive financial aid and be enabled to live in greater comfort than is possible at present, and there is little fear that the pension money would go to the wrong persons.

MURDERED AMERICANS

It is stated that more than one hundred Americans have been murdered in Mexico this year. If this be true, then the American government has been derelict in its duty, that of affording every protection possible to United States citizens, no matter where they may be. Talk of bringing those responsible for the murder of Americans in Mexico to 'a definite reckoning," as announced by President Wilson, is silly twaddle. The persons responsible for the assassination and robbig of Americans in that troubled republic will never be brought to punishment.

President Huerta is, of course, primarily responsible for murders, but Hureta is unable if willing to bring criminals to justice. It is as much as Hureta's own head is worth that he is able to keep away from rebels, and his own record of crimes is sufficiently black to show that he would have no hand in punishing those who have committed the murders among the American residents of Mexico. President Wilson must know that the Mexicans, both rebels and loyalists, cannot be brought to book for crimes they have committed under the guise of war.

WINNING FRIENDS.

As the days pass the popularity of the Washington candidates for county office grows. It is coming to be realized by the voters of all political parties that the Washington candidates were nominated because of fitness for the office they seek to fill and not at the dictation of any one man or set of men, and this fact increases the chances of the election of these candidates.

Charles W. Frey, Washington candidate for sheriff, comes before the voters with a clean record. He is a man who possesses the respect of all who know him and if elected he will prove himself a most efficient official. Those who wish to see the affairs of the office of sheriff administered in an able and satisfactory manner should vote for Mr. Frey.

Earle G. Boose, who was named for district attorney by Washington voters, is well equipped to discharge the duties of that office with fidelity. Mr. Boose would not regard the salary attached to the office of district attorney as a matter of greater moment than would be his duty to the taxpayers.

There is more importance attached the office of jury commissioner than many people imagine, and it is absolutely necessary to have in that office a man who is well acquainted in the county, who would be a fit person to have in the jury box and who would prevent the placing of the names of undesirable person in the ujry wheel Such a man is Leo C. Syphert, Washington candidate for jury commissioner.

There are those who say that if there is a ring in the court house it has been squared.

If you are a constant reader of the Progress you know that it is a real newspaper.

Don't swear; it's vulgar, besides some person will hale you before a justice and you will have to pay sixty-two cents for each oath used.

In the meantime, is the health officer making an inspection of the rear lots of residences in this town.?

The beef packers say that if Uncle Sam were to induce farmers to raise more cattle the hight cost of meats would fall. But if the packers were not to be so greedy the price of meat would not now be beyond the possibilities of the average family.

Light of the Fireflies.

It has been proved by experiments conducted by M. Ives, a chemist, that the light emitted by fireflies, glowworms and other insects is purely chemical and not in any way biological. M. Ives finds that this light is not extinguished by death. Of course after death some stimulus is necessary to excite it, but it can be produced in their tissues two years after death, which makes certain that it is chemical in origin.—New York World.

Mr. Schiff will probably be followed by Henry Morgenthau and Abram I. Elkus.

BOMB IMPERILS MANY.

Lives of Twenty-one Families Endangered by Explosion.

New York, Sept. 25.—Twenty-one families in the five story house at 677 Lenox avenue were driven in terror to the street when a bomb exploded in the vestibule. The hallway was wrecked, and the lives of many persons were endangered.

Joseph Davis and Herman Ritter, returning to the house, saw a sputtering light in the vestibule near the inner doors. They made out a large cigar box, wound with twine, with a lighted fuse projecting from each end. The men had reached the steps leading to the sidewalk when the machine exploded.

Davis and Ritter were thrown down. Glass from the broken vestibule doors and marble from the sides of the place showered about them. All the families in the house were shaken by the concussion.

No papers in the suit have been filed It is stated, however, that notice of the action has been served upon Mrs Mackay, who is now in Portland, Me. None of the lawyers would discuss the matter.

NEARING 1000 MARK

Another Woman Takes Out a License to Hunt Game.

Three is on record in the county treasurer's office 990 names of persons who have been granted licenses to hunt game in Clearfield county.

The third woman to take out a license is Mrs. Ella Smeal, of Cooper township, whose license number is 2084.

From the weekly statement of Alex Wallace, there are now 385 more licenses issued than there are deer in this and the adjoining four counties.

Passing Pennies.

Here's a jolly game for summer evenings. Place five chairs in a row and five chairs opposite them, with a small table at each end. Ask ten children to take the seats, with a captain at each head of the line. Then the captain takes five pennies that are given him and lays them on the head table. Every other child must hold out its hands for the penny to be dropped into them, the palms flat and close together. Now the captains sitting beside the head table start sending the pennies to the other end. They pick one cent off the table, drop it in the next child's hand, then the third person picks it out and drops it in the next hand, and so on until the last player is reached and the coin is laid on the foot table. As soon as the fifth cent reaches the foot table it is sent back by the same process. The side getting the five coins "home" first wins. The faster this game is played the more exciting it is.

BOBBY'S BALL.

Lit-tle Bob-by was in the gar-den a-lone.

He felt ver-y lone-ly. He had played with all his toys till he was tired of them. Now he did not know what to do with himself.

"I wish I had a ball," he said, "a ball that I could throw up in the air and bounce on the ground."

And then a voice be-hind him said:

"Catch!"

And a ball came flying through the air to-ward him. Bob-by held out his hands and just caught it. It was a love-ly big, bounc-ing, red and green ball.

There be-hind him stood dad-dy.

"I thought you might like a ball, Bob-by boy," said dad-dy, "so I brought you one home."

THREE WORDS

Lawyer Received $10,000 For "Stop! Look! Listen!"

By HOLLAND.

WORDS are wonderful things. A Chicago publisher displays in his windows the legend, "Words are the only things that live forever."

A lawyer was once asked by the president of a railroad to suggest a sign that could be posted at railroad crossings—something that would prevent accidents and would also be effective in defending damage suits when accidents occurred.

He suggested the three words, "Stop! Look! Listen!" He received a fee of $10,000, and his suggestion was worth it because those words, posted at grade crossings, prevented many accidents.

Do you believe in signs? And do you obey them when you see them? Do you stop, look and listen? You ought to, because by watching these warnings as they appear in our advertising columns you can

AVOID BEING SWINDLED BY SUBSTITUTES

Every advertisement is a warning sign. It suggests that you stop, look and listen before proceeding. In other words, investigate and thereby avoid the shoddy, the impure, the worthless.

The increasing popularity of dog meat as a table delicacy among the poor of Berlin is no better shown than by the recent decision to erect an abattoir for dogs. The harbor of Reykjavik, in Iceland, is to have a railway built about it so as to facilitate the transport of freight and ease the congestion due to old fashioned methods. The enterprise is small to begin with, but it is thought that once an opening is made on the island a railway running across to Thingvalla will be built.

Japan has finally decided, after experiments extending over some years, to put beef on the daily diet of her navy. The reason is that the men in those ships where beef has been given daily have an advantage in height of nearly three-quarters of an inch over the average Japanese peasant, to whom meat is an unknown food.

PROSPERITY

Advertisements Are the Guideposts Showing Way

By HOLLAND.

WOULD you travel the road that leads to Prosperity? Then read the advertisements. They are the guideposts pointing the way. Disregard the advertisements and you are likely to go wrong, and even if you finally reach your destination you do so only after needless delays and unnecessary traveling.

The traveler who would disregard guideposts, who would not examine them at every opportunity, would be called foolish. He would get little sympathy when he complained of time lost going the wrong direction.

The man who neglects to read the advertisements is disregarding guideposts and is taking unnecessary chances and is delaying his own progress.

"Fine Feathers"

In "Fine Feathers", the greatest drama of the day that has ever been written, and which will be presented at the New Opera house next Tuesday night. H. H. Frazee, the owner, and Eugene Walters, the author, have given the public a play that will live for years. A young chemist on a salary of $25.00 a week is trying to support an extravigant wife who craves for the fineries that her husband can not give. How the wife ruins her husband through working on his love for her makes this play one that grips the audience from start to finish.

'Uncle Tom's Cabin" was given to a record-breaking audience at the New Opera house last night, and the performance pleased those who witnessed it. The company carries a large amount of paraphernalia, including bloodhounds, ponies and the like, and the street parade, headed by two bands, was the delight of man youngsters.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Pressure at Opening Caused Decline in Industrials.

New York, Sept 24.

The reports about lessened production by the United States steel plants at Pittsburgh were effective in causing increased pressure on that stock in the early trading and had a disturbing influence on trading through the list. Steel sustained a further loss of one-half point, selling at 63½ at the opening, and the lack of support around previously prevailing prices in the leading industrials caused liberal selling of other issues Union Pacific appeared heavy, declining seven-eighths point to 159⅝, and fractional losses were sustained in Reading New York Central and the copper stocks were also established at a lower range

The tone in the early trading was determined to a great extent by early price movements in London, and during the first hour arbitrage brokers sold stocks here at a fairly large scale for London account, the supply from that source amounting to about 20,000 shares chiefly Union Pacific, Steel common and Amalgamated The room traders bought at first, but outside speculative interests were aggressive sellers Steel common yielded ⅞ to 63¾ on reports from Pittsburgh indicating substantial trade recession The Copper shares were freely supplied Government bonds were unchanged and other bonds irregular There was no change in speculative conditions in the late forenoon, pressure continuing to be exerted against many of the leading issues, and some further declines were sustained in Reading, Union Pacific and Steel The feature of the trading in Reading was the sale of 2,000 shares for London account, closing out the stock bought on the other side a week ago The manner in which Reading acted however, was regarded as satisfactory by those committed to the bull side. The continued accumulation on the recessions was taken to indicate that some basis existed for current reports that the management had under consideration an arrangement to amicably adjust its relations with the government Union Pacific was supplied in fairly large volume, mostly by houses with foreign connections

THE THRIFTY MAN IS ALWAYS AHEAD

HE is not absolutely dependent upon his pay envelope. He has money put away and when a chance to make some money by a timely purchase turns up, he is ready for it.

BE THRIFTY--Dollars are slippery things, they go through ones fingers before he knows it. The sure way is to open an account with us and the dollars are in a safe place and will not tempt you to spend them.
